BIG LOAN IS OFF BUT TWO SMALL ONES MAY BE MADE

China Fails To Get The $16,000,000 Offered By Chicago Banker

PEKING IS CHARY

Declines To Have Revenue Supervised—Little Loans Unsigned

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Nov. 3.—Following the failure of Mr. John J. Abbott and the Chinese Government to agree upon the loan of $16,000,000 for the repayment of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago and the Pacific Development Company loans in time to prevent the Government's default, negotiations now have been continued with the Ministry of Finance for two small renewal loans, of which the terms are near final agreement but still are unsigned.

It is believed that the failure of the larger loan was due partially to the objection of the Chinese Government to the plan to make it over to the American Group of the Consortium as arranged between Messrs. Abbott and Stevens. The proposed loan terms involved supervision of revenue which the Government was unwilling to let fall into the hands of the Consortium.

ASKS WHY THE DEFAULT
(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 2.—It is authoritatively stated that the attention of the Chinese Government has been called through the American Minister at Peking to its failure to pay the principal and half-yearly interest on the loan of $5,500,000, made to it by American bankers.

WORK STARTED ON MOTOR SHOW LIGHTING PLANT

Work was started at Verdun Gardens yesterday on the big electric lighting plant that is to be installed and operated during the automobile show by Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd. The auto show power house is to be just to the left of the south entrance to the main exhibition building, and will be housed in a specially constructed building.

Concrete foundations six feet in thickness will be put down as bases for the heavy crude oil engines that are to drive the big electric generators. The lighting plant is to consist of three engine and generator sets, and since the distance "between centers" is to be twenty-five feet, the building necessary to cover the plant will have to be of considerable size.

While the automobile show is to have its own lighting and power plant, the "juice" it will supply will not be sufficient to light the show. The main supply will come from the French municipal power houses, leaving the "Jardine" plant in reserve for police lights, for emergency use, and for heating the dancing pavilion by means of electric radiators.

PLENTY OF LIGHT

The motor show is to be brilliantly lighted, since the plans prepared by Mr. Surman, of Jardine's, call for more than seven thousand lights. Each booth will be lighted from the sides and also from the ceiling, and in addition to all lights there is to be an extra supply of current for those exhibitors who wish to operate mechanical displays by electric motors. Several such displays will be installed at the show, including one, at least, and perhaps additional "cut out" motor car chassis.

The Central garage has obtained a "cut out" chassis from one of the manufacturers in America, and this will be seen in operation at the show. In this chassis all the covering for the mechanical parts of the car have been cut away, so that the "innards" can be seen in operation exactly as when the car is running. The power for operating this chassis is to be supplied by its own electric batteries, and as the engine and other parts will turn very slowly the show visitors will have an opportunity to observe the operation in detail. Little electric lights will indicate the explosions of gasoline, and both foreign and Chinese experts will be on hand to answer

Decided Stand On Shantung Taken In Resolution Of British Trade Conference

Question Of Former Enemy Concessions Is Also Dealt With—Menace Seen In Wholesale Launching Of Stock Exchanges Here

In resolutions adopted yesterday at the second day's sessions of the conference of Associated British members of Commerce emphatic views are expressed on the Shantung question and, of local importance, an expression of opinion is given in one resolution on the recent wholesale launching in Shanghai of stock and produce exchanges.

The view of the conference on the Shantung question in brief is, in the words of the resolution adopted, that . . . "any settlement of the Shantung question which leaves the Japanese in a privileged position in that province will constitute a negation of the policy of the open door of equal opportunity for trade in China to which the British government stands committed."

MUST KEEP PLEDGE

In another resolution adopted yesterday the trade conference dwells upon the failure of the foreign powers to insist that Peking fulfill the undertaking given by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs concerning German and Austrain concessions at Hankow and Tientsin. The British government is urged in the resolution to press for an immediate solution of this question and urge that these areas be made International Settlements with municipal governments built on foreign lines.

As expressed in the resolution on concerning stock and produce exchanges in Shanghai these enterprises are regarded as a standing menace to the financial stability of the port. It is held that these exchanges have not been started to meet legitimate requirements of trade, but are of speculative and of a gambling nature.

THE RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were passed at the conference on Wednesday afernoon:

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED

"That the Association's Constitution as circulated by the Secretary on January 25, 1921 and October 19, 1921, together with the amendments recommended by the Constitution Committee as shown on the paper attached thereto be adopted, together with the statement of accounts for the years 1919-1920 and 1920-1921."

CUSTOMS TARIFF, RULE I

"That in the opinion of this Conference the c. i. f. cost of goods, that is to say, the landed cost in Bond, is the basis on which ad valorem duty should be levied and that Rule 1 of the Customs Tariff should be re-worded so as to make this clear."

CURRENCY REFORM

"That this Conference regrets that the obligations to reform the Currency, undertaken by the Chinese Government in the British Commercial Treaty of 1902 with China and also in Treaties between other Foreign Powers and China, remains unfulfilled; that the Conference regards this long delayed reform as urgent and of vital importance to the interests of the Chinese people and of all who trade with or have business in China; and it records its conviction that to the sound planning and success-

HOW TO GET TEN MILLION WORRIES WU; HANKOW TOO

Campaign Already Costs Twice As Much And Peking Can't Pay

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Nov. 3.—General Wu Pei-fu held a conference at 12 noon today with the Tuchun, the Civil Governor, the Chief of the Finance Bureau, the President of the Chinese Bankers' Association, and the Presidents of the General Chambers of Commerce of Wuchang and Hankow and discussed how to raise military funds to the amount of $10,000,000.

In the afternoon General Wu, together with Tuchun Hsiao and Civil Governor Liu, attended a reception jointly given in his honor by the General Chambers of Commerce of Wuchang and Hankow, at which he stated that military funds expended in the big battles at Yochow and Ichang have already amounted to $20,000,000 and that inasmuch as the Peking Government is unable to bear all the expenses owing to its financial embarrassment, the General Chambers of Commerce of Wuchang and Hankow are requested to bear $3,000,000 out of the total.

It is reported that the Presidents of the Chambers of Commerce pledged themselves to give their definite answers afterwards, as they should first hold meetings to decide this matter, and that they have promised to pay $500,000 as an advance.

SOUTHERNERS SEIZED

Hankow, Nov. 3.—Some members of the Southern faction under the leadership of Chen I-lieh have of late been planning to establish at Hankow the headquarters of the Second Army of the Southern troops, but they were all arrested last night by the detectives under General Wu Pei-fu.

RAILWAY OPEN AGAIN

Hankow, Nov. 3.—The railway between Wuchang and Changsha has been reopened today.

A Hongkong telegram printed in the Chinese press states that Chang Tso-ping, who commanded the allied Hunan-Hupeh insurgents at the outbreak of the trouble, has left Canton in company with Han Hwe, for Wuchow, Kiangse.

PLANS HIS ATTACK

Canton, Nov. 2.—General Li Lieh-chun has made very careful plans for his attack on the North. At Kueilin, Kuangsi, he has met in conference with representatives of Generals Liu Hsiang of Szechuen, Koo Ping-chen of Yunnan, Chen Shu-fan and Yu-Yu-jen of Shensi, and others.

Plans for the campaign were discussed at length, and in the meantime it was decided to wait until General Chen Chiung-ming returned to Canton before taking any definite steps. Their aim is to be supported for six months before carrying out a general offensive. The reports that the Cantonese have taken

AMERICAN SCHOOL EXPANSION FUND IS OVER THE TOP

Total Realised Tls. 158,000 Is Report Given At Benefit Performance

Announcement that the campaign for funds for the new American School has carried the subscription list well beyond the goal set—Tls. 150,000—was made last night at the benefit entertainment given on behalf of the school at the Olympic Theater.

A Tls. 15,000 donation from the Standard Oil Company, which firm had previously subscribed Tls. 25,000 to the cause, brought the total at 6 o'clock last evening to Tls. 157,116.95, it was reported to the audience by Mr. A. R. Hager, one of the campaign leaders. Mr. Hager reviewed the purposes and accomplishments of the drive and tendered the sincerest thanks of those concerned to all whose work and contributions have brought about its success. To the amount reported by him must be added Tls. 1,500 realised by last night's performance and Tls. 100 from "an unknown British friend," word of which gift was 'phoned in during the progress of the entertainment. These sums bring the total to Tls. 158,716.95. It is thought also that further donations will come from members of the American community who have not as yet, through absence or other reasons, been able to register subscriptions. Any such may be made to the office of the American School, 147 North Szechuen Road.

The theater, which was given free for the occasion by the management, was well filled and the program provided was entirely pleasing, embodying numbers by local amateurs and films of pertinent character. Mr. Hager's report was given at an interval during the performance.

FINE SCHOOL ASSURED

"As a result of this campaign," he said, after sketching the drive activities and telling of the institution's needs, "your Committee can assure the American community that we are going to have a fine school, well located and adequately housed in modern buildings."

Children of the school, by individual subscriptions, by selling newspapers, by giving entertainments and in other ways themselves contributed $1,604, Mr. Hager reported, in extending the committee's thanks to subscribers whose gifts had not yet been publicly acknowledged. He took advantage of the opportunity to thank the friends of other nationalities, both firms and individuals, who have assisted, mentioning in particular a group of Chinese citizens who, on their own initiative, passed around a subscription paper among the Chinese banks, as a result of which they turned in to the fund between Tls. 7,000 and Tls. 8,000.

There have been quite a large number of contributions from individuals and firms since the campaign closed, Mr. Hager stated, one of the largest being from an American firm only recently established here, Messrs. Liggett and Meyer, who have given G.$2,500.

SOCONY BIG DONOR

At the end of the drive period the total announced was Tls. 136,000 and the committee then called upon the Standard Oil

Dancing As Worship Is Ideal Of This Artiste

By Elsie McCormick

Once, during the Triassic Era of our journalistic career, we had the idea that in order to establish sympathy at the beginning of an interview, we should pretend to share the interests of the person we were about to put on the gridiron. Hence we went to interview an I. W. W. leader once, carrying a copy of the "Weekly People," we talked to an actress while embracing a copy of the "Theater Magazine," and we tried to lead some conversation from a burglar by presenting an article on Yale locks.

The theory was as good as an Oregon apple, but like other theories we have known, it turned out to have no regard for Blackstone, Hoyle, the Queensberry rules, or the law of gravitation. The burglar was interested in a traction scandal, the I. W. W. leader ignored the "Weekly People" on account of being all worked up with indignation because some other reporter had called him a caveman, and the actress talked for half an hour about the symptoms of measles as manifested by her little grandson.

Though taught by experience that the one sure thing about an interview is the element of uncertainty, we nevertheless met with a little surprise yesterday when we had a talk with Adrienne Lachamp. We sallied forth to interview a classical dancer and the first thing we called for when we came back to the office was a Bible. Oh, yes, we finally found one, in a very unexpected desk, too.

DANCING AS WORSHIP

"Praise Him with the timbrel and the dance," says the 150th Psalm, and it is this verse that Adrienne Lachamp has made the text of her life. She states that she became an interpretive dancer because it was to her the most vivid means of religious expression and because it was her hope to help bring dancing back to its old place in worship. "I want that my audience should feel that they are in church," said Miss Lachamp in her quaint English.

Born in Budapest, Miss Lachamp divided her childhood between Hungary and China. She loved dancing all her life, but the thought of taking it up as a career did not appeal to her until she returned to Europe in 1914 and worked as a nurse's assistant in a large military hospital. The tragedy around her had a deep spiritual effect—an effect that caused her to think of dancing as a means of expressing the truths of religion. While in the hospital she worked out her first dances with the new theme and presented them a little later in a theater of Budapest.

AWAY WITH TECHNIQUE

"The first thing I did was to throw aside my technique," said Miss Lachamp. "I had little of it in the first place, for I had never studied dancing systematically, but I didn't want even that little to hamper my expression.

"In the beginning it was very, very hard for me. The people of Hungary and Austria were going through that period of wild license that was the result of despair in the war. Many theaters in the city were giving the so-called 'natural ballets', which meant no costumes whatever, and I was severely criticised for appearing dressed."

In Berlin Miss Lachamp was boycotted because of her French name and on the evening of her debut in one of the largest theaters of the city, she was greeted by an audience of twenty-five people. But being game as well as artistic, she went on with her interpretations, and before leaving the city was rewarded by crowded houses.

SEWED BETWEEN SCENES

Securing costumes in Central Europe during the war had so many practical difficulties that one hardly wonders at the evolution of natural ballets. Miss Lachamp told of presenting eleven dances in three costumes, all so worn that they had to be repaired hastily between scenes.

"It was impossible to get any lace or silk or anything except the coarsest materials," Miss Lachamp said. "I made my own dancing shoes out of almost any kind of goods I could find. My stage dresses were mended over and over but the audiences didn't seem to mind, because their own clothes were patched just as badly."

Miss Lachamp reached her greatest success in Budapest during the Bela Kun regime, when she presented in a dance her conception of the Bolshevist Revolution. At the same time, she appeared in a representation of "Sin," intended as a rebuke for the women of Hungarian post-war society—a dance which illustrates the spiritual deterioration of a woman through drink, narcotics, and lax moral standards.

SERIOUSLY HUMOROUS

Miss Lachamp is an intense little person, tremendously serious about her work, and yet gifted with a sense of humor which causes her to add whimsical numbers to her repertoire and prevents her from becoming the ponderous sort of individual who speaks of a life-work in capital letters. An ardent Christian scientist, she never loses sight of her desire to express religious ideas through the medium of motion. She is developing a dance interpretation of the joyous 150th Psalm and is likewise dramatising to music the story of Queen Esther's plea for her people.

As we remarked before, we didn't expect to need a Bible for an interview with a classical dancer. But after all, why not? Attitude and music have their place in religious ritual, so is there anything irreverent about putting them together?

Full Text Of China's New Reply On Shantung Issue

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 3.—The following is a translation of the Chinese reply to the last Japanese memorandum on Shantung; it begins:

The Japanese Government on October 19 again presented to the Chinese Government a memorandum relative to the Shantung question.

After careful consideration the Chinese Government feels that the Japanese Government not only differs fundamentally from the views of the Chinese Government as expressed in its memorandum of October 5 but also shows much misunderstanding in the interpretations of the text thereof. The Chinese Government therefore deems it highly necessary to make a further declaration concerning past facts and its unchanged point of view from first to last.

The Shantung question concerns the vital interests of China. The Chinese Government is most earnest in its sincere endeavors to find an early solution of the question, even very much more so than Japan. It is only due to the fact that the bases of settlement as proposed by the Japanese Government are altogether too far apart from the hopes and expectations of the Chinese Government and people that they can but calmly and patiently await an opportunity for Japan to reconsider her position.

OBATA STARTED IT

As regards the statement embodied in the Japanese memorandum under consideration to the effect that on the eve of Mr. Obata's departure for Japan in May last, the Foreign Minister, Dr. W. W. Yen, formally expressed a desire to see a concrete project presented by Japan couched in just and satisfactory terms such as might simultaneously be deemed fair by all the nations, it should be observed that when leaving for Japan, Mr. Obata enquired of Dr. Yen as to his personal views on the Shantung question.

It is evident therefore that Dr. Yen's answer to this enjuiry was purely personal and not, as alleged, a formal statement by the Chinese Foreign Minister. Again, the Japanese memorandum alleges that the Chinese Government authorities confidentially presented to the Japanese Government a certain project for the settlement of this question and that they also unofficially expressed their readiness to open negotiations with the Government.

As to these allegations it is highly probable that they arose out of misunderstandings caused by a roundabout repetition of a personal conversation between General Banzai and Counsellor Yu. It would seem to be wanting in discretion if these private conversations between individuals were to be referred to as grounds for the presentation of the Japanese proposals.

SCORES JAPAN'S VIEW

With regard to the memorandum from China to the Japanese Minister on October 5, it enumerates and points out the difference of views between China and Japan both regarding the principles underlying Japan's proposals and the contents of the terms thereof. If Japan had a true understanding of it she would certainly have proposed a project more substantial and just and such as would generally be recognised as fair to all sides.

It is, however, highly regrettable that Japan has not given any sign of concession, while, on the contrary, she maintains that China has

China's Reply On Shantung Again Reiterates Stand

(Eastern News Agency)

PEKING, Nov. 3.—China's second reply, which was handed to the Japanese Legation this afternoon by the Waichiaopu, is a very lengthy one. In the reply the Chinese Government points out that the conversations conducted between Mr. Obata, Japanese Minister to Peking, and Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese Minister for Foreign Affairs, and between Lieutenant General Banzai and Mr. Yu Chin-ho, military Counselor of the War Office were nothing but of a personal nature and that China has not yet recognised the Versailles Treaty. The reply also refers in detail to the Shantung Railway and German public properties and in conclusion it argues that China's assertion regarding the Shantung question is exactly the same as heretofore.

KOO SAYS CHINA WANTS ONLY SQUARE DEAL AND JUSTICE IN OWN LAND

ITALY WANTS AMERICA IN LEAGUE

Delegate From Rome Says He Comes Owing To Country's Desire To Have Part In Momentous Discussion Of World's Greatest Powers

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

New York, November 2.—Delegates from three nations arrived here today on board the Olympic on their way to the Disarmament Conference. They included Drs. Charles Schanzer and Luigi Albertini, and Senator Rolandi Ricci of Italy, Lord Lee, Fareham and Shastri of Great Britain, and Dr. Wellington Koo of China.

Dr. Schanzer said that Italy's presence at the Conference was due mainly to a desire to maintain her position as a world power. He asserted that the most important question of all had been left off the agenda for the Conference and that was the adherence of the United States to the League of Nations.

Dr. Koo declared that Peking's position regarding Oriental questions was unchanged. He said China's first aim was the success of the Conference which could not be attained without the recognition of China's rights and liberties in the Far East.

CHINESE HAS PLAN
(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 31.—Mr. Peng Kuei-hsin, a member of the Chihli Provincial Assembly, has advianced a proposal that, in the absence of a Parliament, the existing provincial assemblies throughout the country should appoint delegates to form an assembly representative of Chinese national opinion in order that China may present a united front during the Pacific Conference.

A circular telegram embodying this suggestion is now being drafted and will be issued as soon at it has been approved by a majority of the Assembly.

SIBERIA SENDS TWO

Vladivostok, Oct. 31.—The Vladivostok Chamber of Commerce are sending Professor Gudkov and M. Aleksin to the Washington Conference.

BRITISH PARTY STARTS
(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 2.—Mr. Balfour, Lord Cavan, Air Marshal Higgins, Sir Maurice Hankey and Sir John Jordan have left London for Liverpool en route to the Washington conference. A large gathering witnessed their departure, including the American and Japanese ambassadors.

Mr. Balfour, addressing pressmen, said that he earnestly and confidently hoped for the success of the conference. He would remain throughout the conference if his health permitted.

Mr. Chamberlain said that he doubted yesterday whether the discussion was desirable but he had since consulted Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Curzon and all were so completely agreed in the desire to see the Conference successful that the Government was confiding to the discretion of the House of Commons to conduct the discussion so as not to prejudice the success of the Conference and had agreed to the debate.

Earl Winterton asked whether the resolution on which the discussion would be based would be so worded as to enable the whole question of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance to be raised. Mr. Chamberlain said that he did not think that the resolution, submitted by the Labor Party, covered that question and he himself deprecated such a discussion as contrary to public interest.

READY FOR DISCUSSION

London, Nov. 2.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Chamberlain, announcing the business program for the remainder of the week, said that he hoped to take the discussion of the Washington Conference on Friday.

GETS DELEGATION POST

Peking, Oct. 31.—General Chang Tso-lin has requested the Government to appoint Mr. Wang Chia-hsi, son of Mr. Wang Nai-ping Minister of Agriculture, an extra Attache to the Chinese Delegation to Washington, Mr. Wang

Chia-juei is said to have sailed already for America.

WOULD ABANDON PEKING

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 3.—The Japan Advertiser of today, in the course of its leading article under the caption of China and the Washington Conference, writes in the main as follows:

"What can be looked forward to at the Washington Conference is the protection of the vast interests of China. Should either of the two Governments in China be assisted, such a step would create a most dangerous factor. The internal affairs of China should naturally be solved from within and not from outside.

"To help the Peking Government only means the procrastination of China's internal disturbances. The best way to help China most effectively lies in the withdrawal of the recognition of the Peking Government on the part of the Powers.

"It may fairly be said that China can get clear of her present chaotic state of affairs only by her own exertions."

American Students Ask Chinese Brethren To Push Disarmament

Appeal to the students of China to organise sentiment intended to influence the Washington Conference toward armament reduction has been made by representatives of forty American colleges.

The following telegram, addressed to the "Students of China" and signed by the "Eastern College Committee for Limitation of Armaments," Princeton, New Jersey, has been received here:

"Representatives of 40 American colleges assembled in Conference, Princeton University, October 26, adopted resolution urging upon American Delegation to Washington Conference importance of reduction present naval armaments and necessity of amicable discussion. If this end is to be realised, in name of Princeton Conference, we strongly urge you to organise Student sentiment in your country and send similar plea to your representatives Washington Conference."

SZE HEADS DELEGATION

The Chinese press reports the issue of a presidential mandate conferring the rank of ambassador upon V. K. Wellington Koo and Alfred Sze, Ministers to the Court of St. James and to the United States respectively. Ambassador Sze, the report states, will be chief of the Chinese delegation to the Washington Conference.

American School Fund Goes Well Over Top

Company, as being the largest American company here, for assistance. The firm shortly after the new school movement was launched had given Tls. 25,000, at a time when, due to the exchange rate then prevailing, the sum represented about G. $40,000. The local management cabled New York for authority and was instructed to make the company's second gift Tls. 15,000, instead of the Tls. 14,000 asked.

If the spirit of Queen Liliuokalani was anywhere near the Olympic while the program was being given then the good lady's shade certainly was given a thrill by the 'Ukulele Boys' in the sketch they put on. This was supposed to be a quintette, but due to illness Mr. Ed Cody could not take part and the act was carried through without him by Messrs. Glenby, Fred Vincent, Herb Jensen and Mark Hanna. It fulfilled every expectation—even to the point of the ukelele playing.

The songs given by Miss Bernice J. Austin of the Music Department of the American School proved a decided feature of the evening and met with rounds of applause.

Blackhand Again Writes Herrick

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Paris, Nov. 2.—U. S. Ambassador Myron E. Herrick has received two letters threatening his life. One is signed by the Blackhand. The missives follow other threats and the explosion of a bomb in the embassy as a demonstration against the conviction of the two Massachusetts communists, Sacco and Vanzetti.

SHANGHAI JEWS TO AID CHILDREN OF UKRAINE AREA

A meeting of members of the local Jewish community took place on Wednesday, the 2nd instant, at 5:30 p.m., at the Jewish Club to consider ways and means to raise large sums for the aid of the 600,000 fatherless and destitute Jewish children, who were reduced to a pitiful condition by the war and the many progroms, and who are threatened with extinction if timely assistance is not forthcoming.

There was a very large attendance of sympathisers at the meeting at which Rabbi W. Hirsch, B. A., presided.

The chairman in addressing the meeting pointed out the gravity of the situation and the urgent necessity of alleviating the appalling miseries to which their people were now subjected. The Jews of South Africa, Canada and Australia adopted many of these helpless orphans, and their example is being followed in England and America. The Jews of Shanghai could not and should not stand aside and look on indifferently at the unspeakable miseries that had befallen more than half of the Jewish population residing in the disturbed areas of Europe. They must take their part in the work of rescue, which had been carried on by other Jewish communities for the last five years with heroic courage and self-sacrifice.

Further speeches were delivered by Mr. N. E. B. Ezra, E. Sokolsky and Mr. A. Riwo and a committee was elected consisting of Rabbi W. Hirsch, L. Radmomishelsky, N. E. B. Ezra, C. E. Sokolsky, Mrs. D. G. M. Aronovsky, Mrs. H. Finkelstein, Dr. Rosemberg, R. S. Poliak, S. Burak and M. Lipkovsky.

It is anticipated that provisions for at least 50 orphans will be made by the local Jewish community and they will be maintained at the latter's expense.

Town Hall Concert Pleases Big Crowd

The two-nights program of the Grand Concert given under the auspices of the Chin Woo Athletic Association and the Chinese Amateur Musical Association at the Town Hall was completed last night. On each of the two nights the audience was at least 1,500 and when the accommodation available was fully taken, men and women cheerfully bought their tickets on the understanding that they would have to stand.

The program consisted among other items of Cantonese and Shanghai music, flute and violin solos, a "Phoenix Dance," instrumental duets by violin and Chinese dulcimer, Buddhist chants, an athletic tournament, wrestling and a comic dance.

A most impressive part of the musical performances was the production of Chinese music by foreign instruments and of foreign music with equal facility by Chinese instruments. The comic dance in which the athelete-dancers attuned their movements to music evoked a roar of laughter among foreigners as well as Chinese.

The proceeds of the performances will be devoted to the library fund of the Chinese Amateur Musical Association and a free night school under its auspices.

The Tsing Woo Athletic Association has its headquarters in Baikal Road and branches in Hankow, Canton, Hongkong and South Sea Islands. It has a membership of 5,000 representing men in various walks of life, and its three-fold work of the intellectual, moral and physical betterment of its members has attracted a handsome gift of $30,000 from a member with which sum sufficient land has been bought for a park.

The Chinese Amateur Musical Association, with offices at Tiendong Road, was started last year for the purpose of fostering general interest in Chinese and foreign music. It has a membership of 200. It has on its membership list Mr. M. Sectoo, who studied music at the feet of the famous American violinist, Mr. W. G. Goss. Mr. Sectoo made a violin of his own for which he refused an offer of $5,000. He played at both concerts and was enthusiastically pressed for encores.

18 Is Age Limit For Stokers, But 16 In Far East

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 2.—The Commission dealing with maritime questions at the International Labor Conference at Geneva has recommended eighteen as the minimum age for maritime stokers and trimmers, excepting in the case of Japan and India, where a minimum of sixteen is fixed, subject to a certificate of physical fitness and employment being confined to coastal traffic.

British Trade Conference Takes Stand On Shantung

ful execution of this great and complex work throughout China must be applied in effective form the best available foreign assistance and supervision; and that the proposed Shanghai Mint if its operations are to further rather than retard the cause of complete currency reform, must be so assisted and supervised from the outset."

PROTECTION OF CHINESE

The following resolution was passed yesterday morning:

"That this Conference deprecates the growing tendency of certain foreign Consulates in China to afford protection to Chinese by process of naturalisation or other means, as it is notorious that in the majority of cases the applicants for naturalisation are not actuated by any desire to leave their own country to take up their residence in a foreign State, but take this simple means of evading their just obligations and liabilities and escaping from the jurisdiction of the courts of their native country to which they would otherwise be amenable."

The following resolutions were passed on Thursday afternoon:

SHANTUNG

"That this Conference of British Chambers of Commerce in China and Hongkong, while disclaiming any intentions of interfering in political issues of grave importance regarding the rendition of Kiaochow and the Shantung Railway to China, desires to place on record its firm conviction that any settlement of the Shantung Question which leaves the Japanese in a privileged position in that Province will constitute a negation of the policy of the open door, of equal opportunity for trade in China to which the British Government stands committed."

CROWN LEASES

"That this Conference, while making due allowance for the unfortunate illness of Mr. Simpson, cannot but deplore the continued delay on the part of His Majesty's Government in placing before the Crown Lessees at Canton, Hankow and Tientsin concrete terms upon which the leases may be renewed and regrets that another year has been allowed to elapse without any material alteration in a situation so injurious to British trade interests and the normal development of the Concessions."

EX-ENEMY CONCESSIONS

"That this Conference deeply deplores the continued failure of the Foreign Powers to insist on the Chinese Government fulfilling the undertaking given by the Waichiaopu with regard to the ex-enemy Concessions at Hankow and Tientsin and urges the British Government to press for an immediate solution of this question by the reconstitution of these areas as International Settlements with municipal government on foreign lines."

STOCK EXCHANGE MENACE

"That this Conference views with serious concern the establishment of a large number of produce and stock exchanges in Shanghai, as it has reason to believe that the majority of these exchanges have not been founded to meet the legitimate requirements of foreign and Chinese merchants engaged in the trade of Shanghai but are enterprises of a speculative and gambling nature and as such are a standing menace to the financial stability of the port.

"The Conference understands that the Chinese Government has refused registration to many of these exchanges but has been unable to prevent their establishment owing to the fact of their location in the foreign Settlements of Shanghai. It therefore urges the Consular Body to co-operate with the Chinese Government by supporting the Municipal Council in any steps which they take for the licensing, registration and control of these exchanges."

DIPLOMATIC SERVICE

"That this Conference for the third year in succession reaffirms its conviction of the value of the Commercial Diplomatic Service in China but recognises that its development to a degree commensurate with British trade interests in this country is dependent on financial considerations. As an alternative to the appointment of additional commerical secretaries or assistants this Conference suggests that the requirements which the British commercial community has in view would be equally well met by a system of appointments of commercial vice consuls in the principal ports, provided that their functions are clearly defined to be primarily commercial and are separated from the routine work of the consulates at which they are stationed.

CABLE COMMUNICATIONS

"This Conference observes with regret that, notwithstanding the representations made by H. M. Consular and Diplomatic Officers, no steps have apparently been taken to remedy the highly unsatisfactory condition still obtaining in telegraphic communication between Chefoo and Shanghai."

questions and explain the mechanism.

These "cut-out" chassis always have been featured at "homes'de" automobile shows, and they have done much to educate the people of Western lands to a better understanding of motor cars.

SOME FINE DISPLAYS

A visit to Shanghai garages these days reveals feverish activity in the coach building departments, and judged from what may be seen in the making, the Shanghai show is to have some exhibits that will rival those of the big shows in London, Paris and New York. Every conceivable kind of motor car, from the small roadsters, or "two seaters" as they are called outside of America, to big handsome sedans and limousines will be shown. In value the exhibits will run to hundreds of thousands of taels.

Work on the floor of the dancing pavilion will be practically finished this week so that when the exhibitors are at the show grounds Saturday afternoon, for a final conference on arrangements for the show, they will obtain a good idea of how the place will look when completed. Work was started yesterday on the tiers, or raised part of the dancing pavilion floor, on which the tables and chairs will be placed. These tiers will make it possible for everybody in the room to have a fine view of the immense dance floor.

It is the present plan of the building committee to decorate the dancing pavilion with Chinese and Japanese lanterns, suspending dozens of them, of all sizes and colors, from the roof. This, it is thought, will give the show a truly Oriental aspect, as well as make it much more beautiful than would a more conventional scheme of decorating.

NO FIRE DANGER

Chairman White, of the building committee, is taking elaborate precautions against fire, and in line with this he has required the exhibitors to build immense doors in the side walls of both the main exhibition building and the dancing pavilion. These doors will appear integral with the wall from the inside, but in case of fire they can be pushed outward, so that the visitors to the show can walk out, the same as if the building had no walls.

Almost the whole of the wall space is taken up with these big doors. With these doors, and with aisles twenty-five feet wide, the exhibits as well as the visitors could be got out of the building in a very short time in the event of fire. In addition to these precautions, a staff of firemen will be in the buildings at all times; there will be fire extinguishers on every post. With these precautions it is not believed that a fire could make much headway at the show, or that anybody would be injured or much property destroyed even if one should start.

Chairman Hashagen, of the publicity committee, visited the show grounds yesterday, and announced that show publicity will be pushed the show is to be advertised as far from now on, both in Shanghai and away as Tokio, Hongkong, Peking, the outports. Under his direction Hankow and Manila.

GETTING BACK THE PURCHASE PRICE

Most every business man can afford to maintain a motor car. The operating expense is a part of his income.

Few men, though, can afford to lose the initial cost. It represents a loan, a mortgage or the accumulated savings over a long period.

If it was purchased with money borrowed from a bank, it has been a poor investment if he cannot realize a large percentage of the cost at re-sale.

Think this over well when investing in a car and find out what a large percentage of the cost of a MILBURN ELECTRIC is represented by its second hand value.

CARS are not only good for riding and economical in operation but they are a sound investment.

CONFUCIUS IS INVOKED BY WU TO UNITE CHITA

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, Nov. 2.—The Wuhan Chamberc of Commerce today give a reception for Wu Pei-fu. The northern military leader made an address in which he said that the Chinese situation could be improved by application of the Tashuo Theory, contained in the Four Books, which says that a country can be brought to order by rectifying hearts, then persons, then families, and finally the country.

Wu Pei-fu will entertain the consuls and naval officers of the foreign governments here on Friday.

Philippines Bar Men Hosts At Banquet To Fifty Local Lawyers

"One of the most successful affairs of its kind held here" was the unanimous opinion of the fifty-odd guests who assembled at the Astor House last night to attend the dinner given by the Philippine delegation to the recent Peking conference of the International Bar Association.

Representatives of the Chinese courts and Chinese officials and members of the American and Chinese Bar Associations were numbered among those invited and the spirit of international fraternity, good feeling and cooperation distinguishing the function found expression in a number of spontaneous after-dinner speeches.

Colonel J. Wolfson, of Manila, made the speech of welcome on behalf of the Philippine delegation, and Mr. Tsai Kee-pei, the president of the Chinese Bar Association replied, emphasising in his talk the necessity for friendliness among members of the fraternity, of whatever race, and expressing pleasure over the evidences of such a consummation apparent on this occasion.

Mr. H. D. Rodger also spoke following up the vein taken by the previous speakers and touching on Filipino-American relationships, stating the necessity for thorough understanding between the two peoples and the realisation that America has no ulterior motives but only the wish for the Islands to get ahead.

Senator P. Guevara and Major C. P. Holcomb were also among the speakers. The Philippines delegates are Judge Jose Abreau, Senator P. Guevara, and Messrs. M. Azada, A. Suntay, F. A. Delgado, R. Summers, J. A. Santos and Mr. E. Quirino, who is a member of the Philippine legislature.

Another function given in connection with the present visit of the Filipino barristers was a tiffin party arranged by the Chinese Bar Association which took place in the Pei Sung Yuan gardens yesterday noon. Both the Filipino and the Japanese delegations to the conference were guests of honor as well as a number of members of the American bar, the whole party numbering about 150. There were speeches by the president of the Chinese Bar Association, by Judge Joseph Buffington of the Third United States Circuit Court of Pittsburgh, by Mr. H. D. Rodger and by members of the Japan and Philippines delegations. Chinese and Japanese officials were also in attendance.

Dentist Slayer Of Hermit Must Hang For His Crime

(Special To The China Press)

Roseburg, Ore., Nov. 1.—Dr. Richard Melvin Brumfield, who has been convicted of being a living counterpart of Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," was today sentenced to be hanged on January 13, six months from the day on which he is charged with having killed Denis Russell, a hermit laborer.

When he appeared in court today, Dr. Brumfield's neck was swathed in bandages, the result of his recent ineffectual attempt to take his own life.

Brumfield came to Roseburg from Indiana, settled down as one of the city's leading dentists, and made for himself an enviable niche as a social lion. He married. For some years matters went smoothly for the Brumfield family. Then it seemed as if all the four-leaf clovers on his ranch just outside the city died all at once. His house burned down. Later the new home he built also burned. In each case he had insurance to cover, or nearly to cover the loss.

GAME EFFORT TO COME BACK

Then he bought additional land, heaped added financial burdens upon himself until the citizens of Roseburg began to regard him as a man who had the iron nerve to play the game quietly, calmly, for large stakes. He was carrying a big load.

One night Wayfarers discovered Brumfield's car aflame at the foot of a steep embankment. Aid was summoned, and there, beneath the car, they found a body wearing Brumfield's ring, his cravat pin, with his keys hanging in the automobile ignition lock, but with the head blown off the body, apparently with dynamite. Sticks of dynamite were found in the car. Search started for Dennis Russell as the murderer of "good ole Doc Brumfield."

Almost everybody agreed it was the doctor's corpse, but some began to doubt. An inquest was held. The town divided. Some said the body was Brumfield's, others said it was Russell's. Men came forward who said they had seen the two together the night of the murder, had heard gun shots, had seen Brumfield bundling something that looked like a corpse into his automobile. The corpse was clothed in Russell's rough working clothes. Russell's letters were found in the pocket. The coroner decided the body was that of Russell and, instead of hunting for Russell, they began hunting for Brumfield. A reward of $2,000 was offered.

HIS PLEA TO POLICE

The "Doc" was found in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, and was brought back here to face trial. He was indicted. But he couldn't remember. He might have committed the murder; if the officers said so, there must be something to it. On the other hand, it seemed to him that had he killed a man he should feel some remorse. He felt none, he said.

But the authorities say his financial condition when he left Roseburg indicates an entirely different story. They claim he was in debt to a sum exceeding $25,000, and that he was insured for over $31,000. They say he attempted to pose as a corpse so that the insurance money would be paid to his wife and his creditors would be satisfied.

C. P. Rakusen Fined On Traffic Charge

C. P. Rakusen was fined $3.00 yesterday morning in the British police court on a police complaint of having driven his automobile on North Soochow Road at 6:15 o'clock Saturday night without a rear light. The defense was that the lamp bulb had become loose and was not discovered as being out of order until Wednesday because it was on the same circuit as the front lights which were burning. It was the ninth appearance of the defendant to answer charges of traffic violations.

U. S. SENATORS TO ASK RECOGNITION OF SOVIET GOVT.

(Trans-Pacific—Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Washington, Nov. 2.—Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland and other senators are preparing to launch a movement aiming at recognition of Soviet Russia, following Moscow's reported offer to assume pre-war debts of the Tsarist regime.

The note from Moscow on this subject has not yet been received here, but it is believed to be so timed as to place the question squarely before the Washington conference.

PROTESTS TO SOVIET

London, Nov. 2.—The British Government sent to Moscow yesterday a strong reply to the Soviet note with regard to Russian debts, pointing out certain obscurities and asking for further explanations.

It is pointed out in London that, while the Soviet Note referred to the Tsarist debts, in which France is highly interested. It did not refer to the enormous claims and municipal loans in which English capital is very largely involved.

CALIFORNIA TRADE DELEGATION GETS NOISY FAREWELL

Visitors Sail On Empire State —Will Return Here On Their Homebound Voyage

Farewell given yesterday to California's trade delegation was typically Chinese for when the tender with the big party left the Customs Jetty for the steamer Empire State, which is taking the travelers south, it sailed away to the accompanyment of a veritable bombardment of firecrackers with which launches following the tender were festooned. The visitors boarded the Empire State and sailed at noon from the Standard Oil Company's Pootung plant.

Besides a number of American officials, representatives of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and the American Chamber of Commerce went to the jetty this morning to give farewell to the California party. Many of those who accompanied those departing to the jetty followed the tender in the launches that went to the ship with the tender.

From Shanghai the Californians will go to Hongkong and Canton, thence to Singapore, Java and Manila and they will again pass through Shangnai on their voyage homebound.

EXPRESS GRATITUDE

Dwight K. Grady, secretary of the Foreign Trade department of the San Francisco Chamber, who organised the tour, gave out the following statement at the Customs Jetty this morning, just before the delegation left for the Empire State.

"The value of our visit to Shanghai cannot be estimated. Every member of our delegation is grateful for the reception given us and particularly for the many expressions of cordiality on the part of the Chinese.

"San Francisco and Shanghai, logical gateways of the Eastern and Western worlds, have many things in common and meetings such as we have enjoyed in our short stay here will do much to eliminate misunderstandings and intensify the cordial relations that already exist between the merchants of San Francisco and those of Shanghai.

MESSAGE TO EAST

"To those of us returning to Shanghai after a long absence, the impression of faith in this city as evidenced in the large number of permanent buildings being planned and erected, is particularly marked. Shanghai business men believe in the future of this port, the logical entry port to the great wealth of Northern China.

"While the purpose of this trip was not to develop immediate commercial activity and is therefore largely educational in nature, yet there is one thing we would like to impress on the minds of the business people in Shanghai—that San Francisco, with its unexcelled facilities for the handling of commerce, invites and encourages the use of these advantages by the people of the Far East.

"We in San Francisco are conducting a vigorous campaign to induce Far Eastern merchants shipping to the Eastern Coast of the United States to route their goods via San Francisco.

"Will you, on behalf of the delegation, express the heartfelt gratitude we all feel for the kindnesses we have received in Shanghai."

A reception was given to the Very Rev. Dean Symons and his family at the Cathedral School for Boys last evening to welcome them back from England, where they have been spending some months.

Crowds of admirers filled the school from 5 to 7 p.m. and had the additional pleasure of hearing a delightful program of music to which Messrs. Zalsman, Muriel, Mrs. Allison, Mrs. Smith and Miss Mungall contributed. Judge Skinner Turner opened the proceedings voicing the pleasure of all present as well as the rest of Shanghai. The Dean in a neatly pointed speech said it was good to go home after 16 years of Shanghai but it was even better to be back.

Roper May Head Democrats Vice Chairman White

(Special To The China Press)

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 2.—Discussion at the meeting here of the Democratic National Committee is confined almost exclusively to supplanting Chairman White, head of the committee. Former Internal Revenue Commissioner Daniel Roper has been mentioned as Mr. White's successor.

Chairman White made the statement that he had no intention of resigning unless all of the elements of the party agreed as to who would be his successor.

the Southern portion of Hunan are incorrect.

Foreigners here learn that Tuchun Li Hou-chi of Fukien has property in Chihli to the value of several millions of dollars. This property is at Machang, within the jurisdiction of Tsao Ying's army. So Li is therefore practically under the control of the Chihli party and is forced to send two divisions to attack Kuangtung as part of the Northern campaign against Canton. Learning of this, General Chen Chiung-ming is returning to Canton to make preparations for the defence of his province.

KOREANS ARE INCITED

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, Nov. 3.—Chang Tso-ling, Tuchun of Fengtien, has wired the government that has received information that Sun Yat-sen has emissaries on the Korean border attempting to incite the Koreans to cause trouble there. The Tuchun also wires that the Russians are still occupying Outer Mongolia and the border of Manchuria and asks for instructions to deal with them.

BURDEN IS TOO HEAVY

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 31.—General Tsai Chen-hsuan, the Minister of War, has again tendered his resignation to President Hsu and it is now believed that the resignation will be accepted and that either Chiang Yin-ying or Chang Shih-yu will be appointed to succeed him.

The reasons advanced for the resignation of the minister are his inability to cope with the increasing demands for funds from the various districts and his failure to inspire obedience in his subordinate officials.

This lack of the necessary prestige to enforce his commands is shown in one example of open insubordination drawn from Chinese sources. Before his elevation to the Ministry of War General Tsai was commander of the first division and upon his acceptance of the higher post he transferred the commander of the second brigade of his old division to another post.

This commander however refused to hand over his position to the officer appointed to replace him and the whole matter hung fire for some six months. The question was only recently settled through the mediation of General Ma Fu-hsiang, Tartar General of Suiyuan. General Tsai, it is stated, believed that his usefulness was at an end when he did not have the authority to remove a brigade commander.

Wuchang ought to become a model city in China."

Mrs. Gordon-West's Opinion of "Kirby's Sea-Sick Cure"

Park Lane,
February 4, 1912.

Messrs. COLLINS & ROSS,
154 Bermondsey St., London.

DEAR SIRS,

Until my last voyage to New York I dreaded sea travelling. Hitherto I had been so susceptible to sea-sickness that I could not leave my bed during the whole of the voyage. Even when travelling by train I have been obliged to lie down.

Before leaving for New York, I was persuaded to take "KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE" and was surprised to find that I not only avoided sea-sickness, but was entirely free from nausea of any kind. We had very rough seas during the greater part of the voyage, but I took all my meals in the saloon, and never felt better.

I shall never travel without the cure in future. You should make the remedy widely known, for it will be a boon to thousands.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MARY GORDON-WEST.

In Nicely Played Game, Called At Darkness With Four Minutes Yet To Go, Younger Boys Hold Upper Classmen To Draw; Waters And Squires Divide Honors

The Freshmen-Sophomore American football eleven of the American School yesterday tied with the Juniors-Seniors at 13-13, in a game played in nip-and-tuck, give-and-take, never-say-die style that left the spectators very much in doubt as to which was the better eleven. It was the second match of a series. The first, played last Saturday resulted in a win for the older class boys by a score of 19-14. The series will probably be continued Saturday.

THE GAME WAS OPEN

The game went to the third quarter before either team had any noticeable advantage. At the end of the first half the ball was within a yard and a half of the center line. Several gains up to 25 yards were made by either side. The forward pass was tried three or four times but twice was ruled off side. Waters punted once from the Juniors-Seniors 40 yard line to the Freshmen's 35 yard mark. The neatest play of the first half was a fake run by McDaniels toward the right wing, with Waters taking the ball for a 20 yard run around left end.

Waters and Squires did most of the ground gaining at the opening, and they each did most of the tackling. The play was open, with end runs featuring the offense of both sides.

Brewster started the second half with a 25 yard run around left end, which followed by Squires dash through center for 15 and his end run for 10 brought the ball to the center where, after a 5 yard penalty for offside, it was lost to the Seniors on downs. With 14 to go on the third down after a 5 yard penalty Waters got around the left end near the middle of the field and took the ball up the field for a touchdown. He kicked goal.

On the next kick off Squires ran the ball back to his 55 yard line. After several mass plays and short end gains, Squires got free around the left end for a big gain to the Senior's 20-yard line. Heavy line hitting brought the ball to within a foot of the Seniors line when time was called. The third quarter ended, Seniors 7, Freshmen 0.

FUMBLE GIVES SCORE

A fumbled attempt at a forward pass when the Seniors were making their fight from within their 1-yard line, practically gave the Freshmen their first touchdown. Kees got the ball about one foot from the line, and Squires carried it through center for the count. He failed in the kick. Score Seniors 7, Freshmen 6.

Shortly afterward, when the Seniors had the ball in the center of the field with 14 to go after a penalty, Chase got around left end on a fake run, and scored the Seniors' second touchdown. He dropped the ball behind the goal however and lost the kick. Score Seniors 13, Freshmen 6.

Another 50-yard run around the end by Brewster took the ball from the center of the field to the 10-yard line. The Freshmen hit the line hard and for consistent gains until with but 1 foot to go, and darkness making it difficult to follow the ball, Squires went through center for the score. The goal was kicked, leaving the score at 13 all—

The match was called at a draw, at Dark.

The elevens lined up as follows:

Officials were J. E. Doyle, referee; H. F. Hewitt, umpire; B. L. Kuhn, Field Judge.

PLAN RADICAL CHANGES FOR NEXT OLYMPICS

Lausanne, Switzerland—Four entrants and four starts will be the maximum limit allowed any one nation in each event of the future Olympic games. This and other radical changes in the program for the 1924 international meet at Paris and succeeding Olympic games were announced here following a protracted session of the Olympic congress.

The congress consisted of about 90 delegates representing each national Olympic committee, each international sport federation and members of the international committee.

It was decided that the amateur rule governing the eligibility of entrants in future Olympic games should be that of the international federation governing such sport. The status of the entrant will be guaranteed by the national member of the federation and certified by the Olympic committee of the country from which the athlete is entered.

Radical changes were made in the program for future Olympic meets. The tug-of-war, the 3,000-meter walk and throwing the 56-pound weight were eliminated. All contests, including preliminary heats, will be held in the afternoon, doing away with the all-day sessions of competition objected to at Antwerp last year.

The foil team-fencing event was retained and horse riding and polo will be open to civilian entrants in the future. The bicycle and track events also were continued. In the yachting division, provision was made for a one-man crew in the five-meter class race, a three-man crew in the six-meter class race and a five-man crew in the eight-meter class races, all crews to be composed of amateurs.

The tennis and shooting events have been continued and two new weight classes added to the wrestling program. In the swimming contests, 100-meter back stroke and 200-meter breast stroke races were added for women competitors, and the 300-meter free style race was lengthened to 400 meters. In the events for men swimmers, the 400-meter breast stroke was eliminated. Gymnastic competition will include combined team and individual contests, eight men to a team, on seven-piece apparatus.

Rugby football, grass hockey, archery and golf were removed from the program. The events for the winter section of the Olympic games are still under consideration. It was also decided that all officials would be appointed by the international federations and all detailed programs for the 1924 games completed and announced not later than January, 1922.

Nineteen members attended the meeting of the International Olympic Committee which preceded the Olympic Congress session, awarding the 1924 games to Paris and those of 1928 to Amsterdam. It was announced that in case conditions made it impractical to hold the 1924 meet in Paris, the games would be transferred to Los Angeles.

Invincible King, St. Leger Favorite Lame, Now Not Expected To Start In Race

Elimination Of The Outstanding Pony Leaves The First Day's Classic More Open: Ponies Ranked As Contenders Did Not Gallop Yesterday; Will Be Out Today

BY "RAIL BIRD"

Whether or not Invincible King, hitherto ranked as the favorite for the St. Leger in the big fall race meeting opening Monday is to be a contender, is still in doubt. It is unquestioned that the pony's stock for the honors has gone down in the last 48 hours by reason of the lameness it developed Wednesday. While showing improvement the pony is still lame and it is now possible that it may not be able to start in the meeting.

Unfavorable weather conditions again hampered timing yesterday, but among the good showings made should be mentioned the Copper Bird, taken at the three quarters post at 1:40 1/5. Veteran ponies were noticeably absent from yesterday's trials, though a noteworthy showing was made by Tyneside. Time for the mile for that pony was 2:14 3/5, with the last quarter done in 32 2/5. Golden Knob and Golden Gate also again came into notice, both of which were timed at the three quarters at 1:39 2/5.

For the Maiden Stakes the Birdrake pony Seadove is coming more and more into notice as a contender and in this trying out event, which will be the third race on Monday on present showing should unquestionably get a place. Seadove was timed for the three quarters yesterday at 1:39 2/5. It did the last quarter in 32 4/5.

Gallops will be held again this morning when most of the old timers will be out. In the trials of today and tomorrow in large nature will be determined the choice of the favorities for the selling lotteries that will be held tomorrow night.

The table of yesterday's trial gallops will be found on page 6.

URGE HUNGARY DETHRONE KARL AND AVERT WAR

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 2.—The Conference of Ambassadors, considering that a Hungarian proclamation, dethroning the Hapsburgs would provide the Little Entente with the guarantees for peace which it demanded and thus permit the cessation of military preparations, has decided to invite the Hungarian Government to proclaim the dethronement of the Hapsburgs before November 7.

Good Season Reported By Literature Society

Tribute to the memory of Dr. Timothy Richard and to his work was paid yesterday at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Christian Literature Society by Dr. R. Devonport, who presided in the absence of Sir Everard Fraser. The society's present day position he attributed to Dr. Richard's efforts and to the succeeding leadership of Dr. Hopkyn Rees and Dr. D. MacGillivray.

Large increase in membership during the past year was reported by Dr. MacGillivray, general secretary, and the society's financial state is better than ever, showing a balance of over $4,000 which was not large, however, in consideration of the extensive work carried on. He reported that the Chinese were taking a deeper interest in the work. Sales were about double those of last year. Other reports were given by Miss S. J. Garland, who spoke of the advance in adoption of the phonetic script system in China; the Rev. J. Percy Bruce, of Shantung; the Rev. Evan Morgan and the Rev. Norman Rowland.

Six Ricsha Coolies Protesting Hire R ise Subjected To Torture

A delegation of ricsha coolies who called upon a Nantao ricsha company head to protest against increased hiring fees met a response which included their being bound and tortured, according to a report in the Chinese press.

A delegation of six men, the report states, called upon Sun Van-chun, the ricsha owner, to ask him not to increase the rates of hire. The previous rate had been 500 cash per day and it was proposed to make this 600 cash. The delegation was led into a rear room, where the members were seized by Sun's assistants and physical argument was resorted to in an effort to make the men retract their demands. A neighbor reported the matter to the police and Sun and two assistants were arrested. The coolie representatives had to be sent to hospital and it is reported that several are in a serious condition.

SOOCHOW CREEK INSPECTION TRIP MADE BY EXPERTS

Harbor Engineers Vary Committee Room Work With Launch Jaunt

A trip of inspection along the Soochow Creek varied the program yesterday for the Committee of Consulting Engineers now engaged in consideration of the problems of Shanghai harbor development. The trip afforded a respite from the continuous sessions in the Committee room and proved of great value as well.

The members were taken by automobile to Warren Road where they boarded launches which conveyed them down the creek back to Shanghai. The trip provided much interesting material for the members, giving them an excellent idea of the importance of inland waterborne traffic and the industrial development of the city on the banks of the creek—a development which, in the words of a resident of close on thirty years standing who recently returned by that route from Henli Regatta was "a revelation."

Last week the members spent three days on the upper reaches of the Whangpoo and a visit to Hangchow Bay, Chinshan, and Chapu, and also reported the great value of this expedition. They were much impressed by the fine state of the Upper Whangpoo.

Since their return a week ago, the Committee has been in session no fewer than nine times, in addition to attendance at meetings at which expositions have been given by the various members of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board staff of data collected and conditions of the port.

The sessions are officially timed to extend from 9.30 a.m. to noon but these have an habitual knack of extending to close on to one o'clock and from 3 to 5 p.m.

The members have now considered all the projects which had been prepared for their consideration by the Board as well as the other schemes put forward from outside sources and in the language of the man in the street it may be said that they are "getting down to the real going."

The Autumn Races are down for settlement next week but the fact has not yet been remarked upon by the Committee, except in one suggestion that Wednesday afternoon might be considered an off day. "Business as usual" is otherwise the motto for next week.

General satisfaction is expressed at the rate of progress which is being made and it is hoped to complete the business sessions, prior to the drawing up of the report, within schedule.

Full Text Of China's New Reply On Shantung Issue

openly indicated her unwillingness to proceed with negotiations.

It will therefore be observed that the reason why the representatives of China have not been able to sign the Versailles Treaty is simply owing to a few Articles in it relative to the Shantung question. Since China has not signed the Versailles Treaty, it is impossible to oblige China to accord recognition to the effects arising from the said Treaty regarding the Shantung question.

Therefore while Japan considers that the leasehold of Kiaochow has been transferred to her through the operation of the Versailles Treaty, China on the other hand deems it to have expired through the declaration of war against Germany.

This difference of point of view, if insisted upon by both countries, will forever deprive this question of solution. Since Japan is willing to restore Kiaochow completely to China there is no more necessity for her to insist on the aforesaid point of dispute.

With regard to the criticism of the declaration made by the German representatives to China it will be observed that when they came to negotiate a commercial agreement China still insisted on her demand for the restoration of Kiaochow. But owing to conditions of war and Treaty restraint Germany lost by force majeure her power of returning Kiaochow to China, for which she expressed regret to the Chinese Government.

It also must be noted that the Chinese Government only declared its acknowledgement of Germany's explanation as such and no more. Indeed, it is a serious misunderstanding on the part of Japan to construe this incident as China's recognition of the Versailles Treaty.

Again it should be observed that the Kiaochow-Tsinan Railway, which is built within Chinese territory, was primarily an undertaking of the nature of a Corporation and Chinese capital was invested therein. It was no German public property nor private property exclusively belonging to Germans. Although it was temporarily operated by the Germans, China had long been looking foward to an opportune moment for its reclamation.

Furthermore the right of policing the railway belonged exclusively to China and there was absolutely no military necessity justifying the occupation of the railway by Japan. During that time China repeatedly protested to Japan that there was really no justification for the occupation of the railway by the Japanese Army. Further more there were no German troops stationed along the line of the railway except that part within the leased territory.

At the time of the occupation of the railway, Japan encountered no resistance whatever and she can have no ground to claim for any sacrifice of lives or treasure suffered on account of the railway. Later when China joined the belligerent nations on the side of the Allies it was only proper that all railways within the territorial bounds of China should be returned to her own control. However, the Japanese troops remained and refused to withdraw and caused innumerable and endless losses and damage to the Chinese people along the line of the railway. This the Chinese delegates did not hesitate to declare repeatedly at the Peace Conference in Paris.

The Chinese memorandum of October 5 proposes to reclaim the right of control of the railway and to divide its entire capital and property in halves, and, as regards the half obtained by Japan, it will be redeemed by China in successive periods. This arrangement in the opinion of the Chinese Government is most fair and just, and the Chinese Government greatly regrets that Japan referred to it as a proposal devoid of meaning.

There was an item to be added to the original draft. It is not known when the reply will be given.

SLAVE GIRLS OF HONGKONG UP IN COMMONS AGAIN

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 2.—The subject of mui tsai was raised again in the House of Commons today at question time by Sir T. J. Bennett, who asked whether there was any limitation except criminal law to the right of purchasers of girls to demand any service they pleased, to punish them at will or to treat them as concubines.

Mr. Wood, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Colonies, replying, said that he did not doubt that in Hongkong as elsewhere public opinion was a powerful adjunct to criminal law in restraining ill treatment of adopted children. He understood that by Chinese custom a girl could only be made a concubine with the consent of the man's wife, the girl herself and her parents.

Mr. J. C. Wedgwood asked if the custom were not illegal in China and only legal in British colonies and amounted to slavery.

Mr. Wood said that he and his predecessor had continually repudiated the use of the term slavery, but he despaired of ever getting Mr. Wedgwood to discontinue the term. He believed that a Chinese law had been passed making the custom illegal outside British settlements. The Chinese, however, sanctioned the principle of adoption on a system of hire to the age of twenty-five on the preliminary payment of a lump sum.

CANCEL ORDINANCE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 2.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Wood confirmed the enquiry of Mr. George Barker as to whether the Government had received a petition from Chinese (in the Straits Settlements) asking that the compulsory registration of Chinese teachers and school committees as required in the 1920 Ordinance should be cancelled.

He added that, after consulting the Governor, it had been decided that this legislation should operate. Assurance had been given that it would be sympathetically administered. The Governor had since assured him that the teachers and members of the committees were registering satisfactorily.

Dominick McDevitt Walking Round Globe Drops Into Shanghai

Dominick McDevitt left Los Angeles on the 19th of last July and started to walk around the world. He arrived in Shanghai yesterday with his scrapbook and is walking about town complaining that he was obliged to ride across the Pacific.

Dominick claims that he has until July 24, 1926, to get back to the city of movie films and motor cars in order to collect $5,000 in American money. He had been ashore but 15 minutes when he found this office.

Dominick therefore hereby registers in Shanghai of his trip around the world. He said he left Hartford, Connecticut, with five cents. He still has the nickel, he says, adding that so far he has enjoyed a cheap trip.

Aged Indian Is Witness In Sikh Murder Trial

Visions of village life in India with scenes and events long past were called up and unfolded in a somewhat remarkable word picture that was drawn yesterday in the stern sitting of the British Court by a picturesque witness, the last called in the murder trial of Sarwan Singh.

An Indian by the name of Mangal Singh was found murdered in an alleyway off Kiangse Road about two weeks ago. Upon information that was supplied following the crime by another Indian, Juna Singh, the defendant in the case being tried was arrested and the main line of defense that has been built up by Mr. J. G. Priestwood who is defending him is based upon conflicting stories that the informer told to the police and upon the informer's own dubious record.

Rur Singh was the witness whose story harked back to life in India. A patriarchal figure, he is known among the Sikhs of Shanghai, as Lallbabshah, the meaning of which is 'The King of Diamonds.' He is an aged watchman and after he took his place on the witness stand he unfolded his testimony in narrative form much as though he was telling the story to a circle of friends.

He dismissed a question concerning the appelation he bears briefly, explaining that once he had been a figure of wealth and power and saying he had lost land and other property back in India.

Juna Singh, the informer and principal witness, he said, was well known to him, as he explained that Juna Singh came from his own village. He said Juna Singh had lost caste and he remembered, he said, that about 15 or 18 years ago Juna Singh killed a man with a crooked stick.

JUNA'S JAIL CAREER

Juna's statement that he was sent to prison over trouble about some land was wrong, witness said Three men were charged with assaulting another Indian. Two of them were acquitted and Juna Singh, the third, was sent to prison for five years. After he came out of prison Juna was again sentenced to one year's imprisonment for assaulting a man from whom he had stolen an ox. Juna said the old watchman had threatened to kill him while he was in Shanghai.

Important evidence regarding the character of the deceased was given by Katara Singh, a cotton mill watchman who was with the accused when the arrest was made. Mangal Singh, the victim of the assault, witness deposed had done no regular work for five years. He was often drunk, begged, and created disturbances by fighting. On one occasion he had seen Mangal Singh fighting while under the influence of drink in Jessfield Road, witness said. Witness then took him to the Police Station.

Six weeks ago Juna went to the mill, drunk, asking for work, so he advised him to apply to the Police. Juna boasted that he had killed a man in India and two men in Russia and was imprisoned, but did not say when and at what place. Since going to the mill, witness had seen Juna several times, generally in a drunken condition.

STICK TO THE LAW

Mr. J. G. Priestwood, defending counsel, said that concluded the evidence at present at his disposal, but he wished to apply for a subpoena. On Wednesday he addressed a letter to the Commissioner of Police asking for permission to allow the officer in charge at Hongkew Police Station to attend Court and prove any entries or records relating to an affair against Juna charged by the deceased. In a reply from Mr. R. C. Faithfull, Police Prosecutor, the request could not be complied with, but the usual course must be adopted to apply for a subpoena duces tecum to compel them to produce and show to the Court any books or documents in their possession containing any entry relating to the matter.

Mr. Priestwood said that he thought that Juna and Mangal Singh were fined $4 or $5 for being drunk and fighting sometime in October.

Mr. King, referring to the records, said that on October 3 Mangal Singh and Juna were fined $5 each for being drunk and fighting. Mangal said Juna struck him, but Juna denied it.

WANTS M'GREGOR THERE

What he proposed to do, said Mr. Priestwood, was to apply for a subpoena against the police officer who gave evidence on that occasion and also a subpoena duces tecum against Chief Inspector McGregor to produce evidence of what occurred at Hongkew Station.

"What is it you actually want?" asked Mr. King.

"The occurence book, Chief Inspector McGregor and Sergt Oates," replied Mr. Priestwood.

Defending counsel was asked to make out the necessary application.

The case was then adjourned until this morning at 11 o'clock.

Hupeh Fetes Her Japanese Visitors

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Nov. 2.—The party of members of the House of Representatives of Japan today attended a luncheon given jointly by General Hsiao Yao-nan, the Tuchun, and Liu Chiang-en, the Civil Governor, of Hupeh. Besides the parliamentarians Consul General Segawa, the managers of leading Japanese firms and the proprietors of Japanese newspapers were invited.

The party went to Wuchang from Hankow on board the Japanese gun-boat Saga and salutes were exchanged. Upon landing at Wuchang the party went to the office of the Tuchun by carriage and both General Hsiao and Civil Governor Liu met them outside the gate.

It was at first arranged to include General Wu Pei-fu among the hosts but, as he was to inspect the arsenal at Hanyang he attended the luncheon later. General Hsiao toasted the guests welcoming them as the representatives of Japan. Mr. Odagiri, the doyen of the party, replied.

NORTHCLIFFE IS OPTIMISTIC OVER THE CONFERENCE

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—China Press Exclusive Service)

Tokio, Nov. 2.—Lord Northcliffe arriving at Tokio expressed himself as being thoroughly optimistic regarding the Washington conference.

He declared that he had "great confidence in the capable leadership of the officials of the American government." He opined that the conference would last at least six months and reiterated the belief that Anglo-Japanese alliance had outrun its usefulness.

No official or formal entertainments are being planned for Lord Northcliffe during his visit in Tokio. The Japanese government and public bodies are hesitating owing to the "doubtful attitude" of the British foreign office toward the great publisher following the Geddes incident in Washington.

Lord Northcliffe will remain in Tokio only one day. He leaves here Thursday for Western Japan enroute to Korea, Peking and Shanghai.

Northcliffe's recent statements advocating abrogration of the alliance between Japan and England and insisting that the white peoples of the world maintain a united front in the Pacific against Asiatic expansion called forth bitter comments from the Japanese Press.

CORNER TURNED MCKENNA SAYS ON LEAVING U. S.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Nov. 2.—Mr. McKenna, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has been visiting America, before leaving for England today issued a statement declaring that the financial horizon seems clear though it will probably be a considerable time before normal conditions are restored. He believed that a corner had been turned.

Mr. McKenna found that considerable interest was being taken in the question of international government debts. Speaking from the British point of view, he expressed the opinion that Britain would act wisely, having regard only to her industrial and economic position, and remit the debts due to her.

In conclusion he said that peace and industry were the prime needs of the world which looked to the United States to lead the way.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

November 3, 1921.

Spot bar silver was up 3 8d. and forward 1 2d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 70¼ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 393.

The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday and the market throughout the day was steady with very little business. In the morning, some business in cash was done at 4s. 0d. and in Gold Dollars at 78½. During the day, however, the cash premium eased off somewhat and at the close the best obtainable for cash was 3s. 11¾d. and 78. The market closed with sellers of Sterling for December at 3s. 10¾d. and in Gold Dollars at 76. China bought silver again in London yesterday and the market there is quoted as being firm. New York reports their market as being steady but with little doing.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market report of yesterday:

JAPAN COAL

There has been no new business done during the past two weeks as negotiations are still pending for next year's supplies and until the Municipal Council contract—which is the most important one in this port and for which tenders are called for by the 10th inst. has been settled—buyers are not inclined to commit themselves.

FUSHUN COAL

No change.

FUCHUNG ANTHRACITE COAL

No change.

KAIPING COAL

As most Commercial Concerns are working on full time, contract coal is being delivered with the usual regularity. Arrivals continue on a somewhat extended scale but now that inland navigation is practicable in all directions local stocks have been considerably reduced. The market can be described as quite steady.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market report of yesterday:

The situation in our Outward Freight markets remains unchanged and we have nothing to add to the remarks in our report of a fortnight ago!—the export trade to Europe and America is "dead" for the time being and there is no hope in sight, as far as we can see at present.

TO UNITED STATES OVERLAND AND VIA CANALS

The only item of interest to shippers Overland is the fact that the Trans-Pacific Freight Bureau has decided to reduce the ocean rate on tea to G.$6.00 per ton temporarity for November and December.

COASTWISE

There has been a fairly brisk demand for tonnage from the Northern ports during the past fortnight and at the moment the situation is quiet but indications point to a renewed demand very shortly. The Wuhu rice market is dull at the moment otherwise River traffic is normal considering the unsettled state of affairs beyond Hankow.

TRAFFIC RETURNS

The following is the traffic return of the Shanghai Tramways, (Foreign Settlement) for the week ended November 2, 1921, with figures for the corresponding week last year:

The Chinese Political Stage

BY JOSEF W. HALL

THE Chinese Government has defaulted on the Continental and Commercial Bank loan. To give some show of governmental concern, Premier Chin Yun-peng yesterday—the last day of the loan term—summoned the high officials of the Ministry of Finance and iterated the importance of living up to foreign financial obligations. The officials responded by promising immediate financial reform involving the liquidation, first, of foreign and secondly of domestic debts, with funds to be appropriated from the regular provincial remittances—provided the Premier promise to collect those remittances. Although still called "regular" these remittances, provided for in the Nanking provisional constitution, have never been made since Yuan Shih-kai's day, and they were even then not made regularly.

THE recent scare in Peking and more especially Tungchow, ten miles to the east, was one of the concluding acts in the Jehol byplay, a side-show to Chang Tso-lin's Mongolian Expedition. When the Mongolians, following the Urga debacle, were actually pressing down and threatening Hata and other cities of the Manchurian border, the aged Tutung of Jehol, General Chiang Kwei-ti, sent one of his two divisions northwestward to hold them back, meanwhile pleading for reinforcements from Peking.

The Mukden lord, after collecting sundry titles and three million dollars from the Peking Government, agreed to despatch reinforcements, and sent his 28th Division under Chi Chin-chun in the direction of Hata. En route the division suddenly swerved southward (the fighting front was to the north) coming in between Chiang Kwei-ti's troops and their base at Jehol. Chang Tso-lin then requested the deposition of old Chiang in favor of his man Chi.

His army caught between the perfidious Fengtienites and the Mongols, and cut off entirely from supplies, Chiang withdrew to Jehol with a few bodyguards. His second division, far below strength, was at that time scattered along the western border of his territory. With only three hundred men to support him he defied Chang Tso-lin for two months. Chang did not care to risk the public infamy of attacking his old senior, and resorted to political influence and bribery to withdraw from Chiang such backing and sympathy as he had. Ultimately the old man was forced to recognise his position as untenable. Peking offered him a position as protector of the metropolitan district, which he brusquely declined. Coming to Peking quietly he retired into private life.

His two divisions of soldiers were left leaderless, payless and supplyless, scattered about the territory of Jehol. The soldiers of Chang Tso-lin's general occupy the capital of the territory, and allow the former garrison no supplies from their accustomed source, Manchuria. Many of these soldiers are ill from lack of proper nourishment and hardships suffered in the Mongolian campaign. Tuberculosis is rampant among them. Some of them have worked their way to hospitals in this vicinity, only to be turned away as too far gone for treatment.

The only outlet of these soldiers is toward Peking. They are at present drawing grain supplies on credit from the merchants of Tungchow. Naturally they constitute somewhat of a menace, but they are more to be pitied than feared.

Chang Tso-lin has proved himself, through the Mongolian "expedition," to be without peer in politics by military bluff. As to politics by actual fighting, he remains unproved.

A HUMOROUS sequel to the occupation of Jehol by Chi Chin-chun, Chang Tso-lin's henchman, is the detention by him of the keeper of the Ku Wu Chen Lieh So, or museum of ancient treasures at Jehol, on the charge that many of the articles now in the museum upon investigation prove to be spurious substitutes, the actual treasures having disappeared. Jehol is the site of the "country estate" of the defunct dynasty, and the Manchus, upon their abdication, left the beautiful buildings and grounds replete with ancient relics and treasures of various kinds.

The museum keeper now in hot water, Bei Yung-shih, defends himself on the ground that when he took office after the Tutungship of Hsiung Hsi-ling the treasures were missing. Chi is said to take the position that if Bei knew that the treasures were missing at the time of his assumption of office he should not have dared assume the responsibility.

ANOTHER bit of horse play in connection with the Jehol affair, which has been the gossip of the teashops since it came off, is the beating of Chen Wei, the high treasury official who is responsible for the issuance of Treasury notes, by Jehol soldiers who had come to Peking to collect on some notes given them in lieu of pay. The story goes that these soldiers took their notes to the Bank of China, which informed them that the notes were uncashable since the date of redemption had been omitted in issuing them. The men enquired who was responsible for such omission, and were referred to Chen Wei of the Ministry of Finance.

At that very moment Chen Wei stepped out of his limousine into the bank and overheard his name being used in vain by the cheated soldiers. He reproved them with great dignity for speaking thus of him, a high government official. To his great surprise he was set upon by the wrathful soldiers, and considerable floor space was wiped up with him before the bank officials got him behind the grill.

Naturally, Treasury officials have no desire to see the entire body of Yi-chun, or ex-Jehol troops, come this way.

Among Those Present

(From the Philadelphia Record)

"The big potatoes are always found at the top of the heap," remarked the successful man.

"But if it wasn't for the rest of us there wouldn't be any heap," replied the unsuccessful one.

Now It Cannot Be Told

(From the London Saturday Review

Lord Esher has proposed to seal up for sixty years in the British Museum the papers on which he founded his "Tragedy of Lord Kitchener." Earl Haig's papers concerning his command in the war are not to be opened till 1940. Some fresh letters of Dickens are to be available in 1925 and will be eagerly scrutinised. His writings as known to the world are not fully representative of his busy career as a man of letters. For instance, a "Life of Christ" which he wrote for children has never been published.

Efficiency

(From the Washington Star)

"Efficiency consists in avoiding the loss of time and energy on things that have no practical importance."

"And yet," said Farmer Corntossel, "I can't notice that the man who lets his whiskers grow to save fussin' with a collar and necktie does any more work than the rest of us."

Why Let White Race Rule Asks Japanese

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Oct. 29.—The editor of the Japanese newspaper in Hankow, Hukwang Hsin Pao, published in Chinese in the Japanese Concession, criticises the recent activities of American and British navies on the Pacific Ocean in an editorial article under the caption, "Naval Movements of America and Britain on the Pacific."

The Japanese editor points out the danger of China and Japan being made subjects under the White Powers of the world, saying that racial discrimination on the part of the white peoples has been responsible for the past racial prejudices against the yellow peoples of the Far East.

"Following the appearance of the Pacific Conference," he says, the most striking phenomena of the situation are: the attempt of America to center her naval fleet on the Pacific, and the plan of Great Britain to expand her Far Eastern Fleet.

FEAR OF PROPAGANDA

"During the present period of shifting politics of the international situation, the newspaper editors of the various nations, actuated by the interests of their own countries, are apt to make an exaggerated propaganda. Therefore the extent to which America and Britain will likely put their plans in effect cannot be prognosticated at presented. But since America and England have already hatched such plans, it is beyond doubt that they will sooner or later carry them out vigorously. Viewing the matter in this light, it must come about that beginning from now on America and Britain will continue to expand their forces on the Pacific in order to back up and extend their commerce. This is only a natural tendency.

"The purpose of the writer in this article is to discuss the facts and tendencies as they affect the destinies of China and Japan, both being vitally concerned. The movements of America and Britain lead us to the following observations: Since both countries are no longer paying any attention to armaments on the Atlantic Ocean, it is likely and probably true that they have arrived at an understanding.

"Furthermore suppose these two countries have united, and suppose Japan had joined this union, there would be little or no hitch.

DIFFERENCES IN RACES

"But before Japan could join such a union, it can be easily imagined that they would isolate Japan by splitting up the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and therefore would usher in international control in China by thus isolating Japan's position. (In this Russia must be similarly effected, but discussion of same will not be taken up in this article).

"If only these observations are correct, I would further ask: will not both China and Japan be subjected to the excessive pressure of the international body? If England and Japan are in alliance yet because of the racial differences, they are morally apart while outwardly united. Though America and England are not in alliance, they are in reality intimately tied up if they appear separated.

"Therefore, however humanitarian we are, it has already become deep-seated in the minds of the whites that racial alienation between the white and the yellow race is a natural impediment and can in no way be bridged. Now, between China and Japan of the same yellow race and closely related too, should we not organise a consolidation by taking advantages of all natural expediencies? I dare say indubitably we should have a solid union.

SHANTUNG IS BLOCK

"But, there are a great many misunderstood diplomatic questions outstanding between China and Japan. And particularly is the Shantung question a stumbling block on the way to union. For several years the authorities and peoples of both countries have been in vigorous contention, just as Germany and France once were over the questions of Alsace-Lorraine. Since these questions have not been solved, the spiritual loss has already been considerable.

"Yet, if outside of the two countries, China and Japan, there were no other countries interestedly watching then little difficulty would present itself, however hot and serious the squabbles may be. But since there are other nations watching with an envious eye, why should we not remedy our mutual shortsightedness and extend our views and sight to a wider horizon, and make mutual compromise and quickly settle the Shantung question, so that we will be lined up to resist the coming White Peril.

CONTENDS TO STAVE FACE

"Furthermore, the opinions of the two countries are being united with respect to the terms of the Shantung issue. Only the question of joint management and control of railways is causing divergence of opinions: China has been contending for form only, while Japan demands interests. Of course there must be a compromise midway between the two extremes, and the question therefore is not entirely uncompromisable.

"Now, why should we not take the opportunity of talking together, thus affording others no chance of keeping us in a state of antagonism and of fermenting unfriendly issues."

Jaundice And Colic

BY WOODS HUTCHINSON

(Eminent Physician Whose Sensible Discourses on Health, Hygiene and Disease Have Been Followed with General Interest.)

(This is one of a series of articles on Gall Stones and Jaundice written by Woods Hutchinson, M. D.)

What are the signs that raise suspicion of gall stones? There are only three which are really to be depended upon. First, successive attacks of jaundice; second, gall stone colic—spasms of cutting, agonising pain, just underneath the liver, that is to say, rather high up and to the right of the "pit of the stomach," shooting through to the back; third, a curious whitey or clay color of the discharges from the bowels, due to the cutting off from the intestines of the coloring matter of the bile.

As, however, gall stones do not cause trouble in more than about one in fifty of us, it is scarcely worth while worrying much about them. Except just to remember that if we have persistent and painful digestive trouble, at its worst about two to three hours after a meal, which does not yield to dieting inside of three or four months, it is a wise step to ask our family physician to send us to a consultant for a thorough and careful examination for gall stones, ulcer of the stomach, or appendicitis.

BEST TREATMENT CITED

This for the reason that the experience of the last thirty years has shown us that quite half if not more of the cases of chronic, intractable painful dyspepsia, are due, not to diet or habits of life, but to one of these three chronic inflammations.

What is to be done if gall stones are found to be present? That is a question which requires much skill and judgment to answer wisely, and depends entirely upon the individual case.

In about a third of the cases, possibly half, it is not advisable to operate, for so long as the gall stones have shown no decided tendency to travel, they are as safe and out of harm's way in the gall bladder as anywhere else. And as this little pouch is, so far as we know, an almost entirely useless organ, it may just as well be used to store gall stones as for anything else.

By increasing the amounts of bland fats in the food, particularly in the form of butter and olive oil, and by appropriate medical treatment, the tendency of these little pirates to start on their marauding expeditions can be much diminished—at any rate the patient can be kept comfortable for years.

WHEN TO OPERATE

If, however, there have been two or more attacks of gall-stone-colic, with or without jaundice, then the balance points rather in the direction of operation because there is always a possibility that the next stone which tries to pass out will block or even burst the duct. In cases of doubt, it is perfectly safe to make what is known as an exploratory operation, and then the eye and the finger of the surgeon can discover exactly what the condition is and if advisable go on and remove it.

In a certain proportion of cases, there is inflammation, with thickening, of the gall-bladder without the formation of gall-stones, and then draining the gall-bladder by an operation gives prompt relief.

Incidentally, it might perhaps be of sufficient interest to be worth mentioning that the way in which physical gall or bile came to be associated with the mental qualities of aggressiveness and augnacity dates back to the old augurs, or haruspices. These quaint old doctor-priests used to foretell the future by studying the colors and shapes of the entrails of freshly killed animals and birds and in the process gave to most of the great organs of the body the names which they bear to the present day.

ANCIENT PERSPICARITY

One of their profoundest observations was that doves and pigeons had no gall-bladders, while hawks and eagles had large and well developed ones. Hence, with the simple logic of childhood, the gall-bladder and gall was the cause of the wide difference in temper and fierceness between these two families of birds.

Shakespeare, who had almost every kind of knowledge stored away in some corner of that wonderful mind of his, has embodied this curious old superstition in one of the lines of Hamlet when the Prince is—most justly—reproaching himself for not taking swift and overdue vengeance for the murder of his father.

"But I am pigeon-livered,
And lack of gall, to make oppression bitter"

The old fellows were quite right in their anatomy, for the gall-bladder is one of the most changeable of all organs, above one-third of all birds and animals having none at all and that without the slightest apparent ripe or reason. The sheep, for instance, has none, while the goat has—which again proves its effect upon temperament; the cow has one, but the horse is minus, while the camel reaches the apex of uncertainty and sometimes has one and sometimes has not.

Which perhaps may account for his uncertain disposition and abominable manners. There is no accounting for tastes—or gall-bladders—in the animal kingdom.

CANCER THEORIES

For some curious reason, this little, side-tracked, almost useless pouch is the seat of another quite serious disease process and that is cancer. On the whole, rather frequent so, for the liver is about the third or fourth commonest seat of cancer in the male and a very considerable share of cancers of the liver begin in or near the gall bladder.

Why this should be we cannot tell, except that it conforms to the broad general law that cancer is most likely to attack organs or regions which have lost their usefulness and are losing their vitality.

But this is a rule which has many exceptions and beyond it we can say very little as to the why and wherefore of cancer of the gall-bladder, except that it appears to be rather closely associated with gall-stones. The older view was that the prolonged and continuous irritation produced by gall-stones gradually stimulated cancerous growth and the gall-stones were the cause of the cancer.

But more careful study and wider observation have thrown doubt on this, and the most probable view appears to be either that the same chronic infection which gave rise to the gall-stones also starts the cancer, or that the cancerous process itself produced changes in the walls of the gall-bladder and in the bile, which starts the formation of gall-stones.

In other words, either the gall stones and the cancer are produced by the same cause or the cancer causes the gall-stones. This is borne out by post-mortem findings which show that, while nearly a third of all cancers of the gall-bladder are accompanied by or give a history of gall-stones, only about one or two percent of all-stones are accompanied by cancer.

So that the actual danger of gall-stones being followed by caucer, especially after they have been present for several years, is not very great.

DO YOU KNOW—?

I can put up with riddles (in reason)—
I have even asked several myself;
I remember when puns were in season,
And signed when they went on the shelf.
They were harmless, some even were witty;
But, Heavens! the fellow today
Who starts saying: "Do you know Kitty?"
I'd joyfully slay!

I object to be foolishly gammoned,
I'm averse to the pulling of legs;
When a person says, "Do you know Hammond?"
Why on earth should he mean ham and eggs?
And how can a fellow applaud his
Extremely evasive reply
When he asks, "Do you know, sir who Maud is?
You don't? Maud do I!"

Comedians inquire of each other:
"Do you happen to know Whatsisname?"
Till I feel that their heads I could smother,
Though their managers most are to blame.
So I've written today to each lessee
To ask if this nuisance he'll ban.
(By the way, can you guess, "Who is Jessie?" Jes' see if you can!)

Farewell To Dingy Soho

BY HELEN M. TALLEY

Word comes from London that dingy, funny little Soho, known to all tourists and the affluent half of the A. E. F., is about to pull down its faded pink curtains, fold up its murky little shops and silently steal into the musty pages of history—by request.

London has need of space, and, cruelly, London has no need of funny little Soho. In which case that small, historic, prowling spot of temperamental Bohemians, which is supposed to have derived its name from the Duke of Monmouth's famous war cry, "Soho," at Sedgemoor, intends to take itself apart, brick by brick, until it is no more.

Gone will be the window of the Italian grocer, lately so gay with swirls of pale green spinach paste, like fine spun spaghetti, the deep purple of choice violet liqueur, the shiny festoons of red peppers and the tiny almond cakes all crinkled with pink suyar.

Not again will one finger yearn for the silky rugs from Afghanistan and Persia, the fat ivory elephants from India and the blue and gold Chinese broideries one finds in the hidden, dirty corners of Soho.

Many years ago this small section of London was regarded as a very fashionable dwelling quarter, but after a time trim maids and highly referenced butlers were glimpsed no longer in Soho's haughty doorways. Burnished name plates and shining brass knockers began to disappear, and then, indeed, it seemed that severe respectability had deserted little Soho.

Its quaint, cobbled streets took to scraping acquaintance and short-cutting through the alleys of sordid neighbors, meandering around in circles, and getting in too late to clean up for dinner—but nobody cared. Its bright windows got dust and soot in their eyes and grew grimy from the fog, but no one took the trouble to wipe them. Its front doors grew weary of keeping up appearances and shed hot tears that blistered the paint and uncovered scratches and gashes on their neglected cheeks.

Its back doors sagged sadly on rusty and broken hinges. They creaked painfully in a final, pitiful protest when they were stealthily pushed open to admit the Armenians, the Portuguese and the Greeks.

Today Soho is a rather badly kept haunt of Bohemia. Turkish, Chinese, French and Italian cafes beckon on every side and are well patronised by those who grow aweary of a too frequent English diet of boiled mutton, greens of an unfathomable origin and pasty white sauce.

Not long ago I spent an afternoon in Soho, and found begging as usual and business at least on its feet. One may buy anything, from a pennyworth of stewed eels in vinegar to the last word in a Fall bonnet, from the rickety old barrows that line and crowd the curb on certain streets.

If your constitution aesthetically precludes wearing a pink "willer" plume on a purple mushroom, you can simply step to the next cart, pick out a wire frame and slap it up to suit yourself—though "there here is all as what a perfect lydy would want, and come by airryplane fresh from Paris every day. It beats all how pertikler some lydys is—there ain't never no pleasin' on 'em."

One cart was having a sale. Three penny packets of Turkish Delight, perspiring freely in the sun, were going briskly at tup'nce ha'penny, slightly damaged rat-traps were doing as well as could be expected, rusty nails lay prone. The greatest bargain of modern times, however, was a rack of the most astounding china vases yet brought to the eye of man. Each and every vase was decorated with a unicorn, pink and vurry rampant, halfway round from a fleeing maiden clothed in an air of abandon and a piece of cross-stitching. You could possess one of these vases, maiden, unicorn and all, for your very own for sixpence. Only the day before nine had been asked—and asked.

Sixpences were passing freely, and I doubt not that today every First Family of Soho has its optimistic pink unicorn still chasing the lily-white maiden in the maze of blue willowware in the parlor cabinet.

A display of wilted fried fish interested me. The street dust swirled and the sun beat down, but buying was brisk. The English poor, like their betters, are not gourmets.

While I stood watching the trading, an old flower woman shuffled along. She was typical—voluminous black skirt over countless ragged petticoats, dingy red shawl and straw sailor hat balanced on a tight topknot. She was endeavoring, with great dignity, to maintain herself as a lady should, while obviously supporting more than a lady's share of British beer. Holding out a bunch of wilted violets, she mumbled at me: "'Ere ye are, dearie, lavly vilets, lavly vilets; tup'nce th' bunch, dearie, tup'nce th' bunch." She was insistent, and to get rid of her I held out a penny saying, "Take this and toddle along; I don't want the flowers."

She took a blear-eyed look at the penny, and then shrieked to high heaven: "Ye dirty article, ye bloomin' dirty article; no gentmum ner lydy never offered me less ner a thrip-ny bit before. Don't come it yer swank wid me, I'm a lydy wot's tellin' yer." She continued to inform Dean Street of her opinion of me, so, in dire disgrace, I pursued my way onward.

The restaurants in Soho are very interesting. The food is always attractively served, and if the quality isn't strictly first class the price is, so one may expect to, but doesn't, save any large numbers of the elusive shillings. The most popular cafes charge Piccadilly prices without a blush or a pulmotor.

Papa takes your order all done up in dress clothes and a celluloid shirtfront (Papa, not the order). Mama hollers it down the back stairs to a mysterious uncle; one daughter bears it in triumph to buy your bitter because it is after hours—and D. O. R. A. prohibits the sale of liquor in restaurants at certain times each day.

Unless you specify otherwise, she brings the stuff back in tankards, and somehow I have always had the most horrible misgivings. Anyway, I always take mine in bottles.

During the meal the members of the family approach you individually and collectively to beam upon you and to inquire if everything is to your taste. With superlative recommendations, they naively pick out the most expensive dish on the menu to suggest as your next course.

One of the daughters told me her mother had a cousin "in the States" who sold pastries to only the richest Americans. My social standing smashed to the bitter bottom because I had to admit he never sold them to me.

RUBBER GROWERS MUST CUT DOWN SAYS RIDGEWAY

(Reuter's Service)
London, Nov. 2.—Speaking at the half-yearly meeting of the North Borneo Chartered Company, Sir J. W. Ridgeway, the chairman, expressed the opinion that the only remedy for the rubber situation was reduction of output but this must be compulsory.
The ranks of industry were too disunited to join in any scheme for the common good.
He announced his intention shortly to visit the company's territory. Sir J. W. Ridgeway explained that the decision to reduce the dividend was due to the fact that trade depression and especially the rubber crisis would mean a considerable drop in the company's revenue for the current year, while the company had given financial assistance to the rubber companies in its territory.
He welcomed the Government rubber committee as a sign that the Government realised that the collapse or partial collapse of the rubber industry would gravely jeopardise the financial position of the Straits Settlements and the Malay States.
Referring to the attack of the Anti-Slavery Society the chairman said that the company did not desire to continue the controversy, especially as it understood that the society did not intend to continue the attacks. The company would be glad of their co-operation in the improvement of a lot of comparatively wild tribes in the interior and the recently acquired territory on the Dutch Border.
Dealing with the recent attack in the Century Magazine, Sir J. W. Ridgeway reiterated that it was a tissue of lies. The writer who was apparently the agent of a cinema firm, only spent one day in the territory at Sandakan. The directors had telegraphed to the Century Magazine, indignantly protesting and the question of further steps would be considered.
There need be no fears with regard to the honesty and emciency of the Administration. He paid a warm tribute to the singlemindedness, sympathy and devotion of the North Borneo Civil Service.

WHAT WILL POOR CRIMINALS DO IF JUDGES QUIT?

(China Press Correspondence)
Peking, Oct. 31.—Judicial officials in the various lower and higher courts of Peking as well as the members of the Peking police force have addressed petitions to the cabinet in regard to arrears of pay that are due them. In the case of the judicial officials a general strike was threatened unless their salaries for the past three weeks were paid within a week. The Peking Police demanded that a reserve fund be established in order that they be assured of receiving their pay on time as they have not received their October salaries.
The petition of the judicial officials was addressed to Mr. Tung Kang, the Minister of Justice, and came as the result of discussions which have gone on for some time. These men have not been paid for three months according to information from Chinese sources while members of the Ministry of Justice have received their salaries regularly which is an added grievance in the minds of the judicial officials. Because of this situation their letter contained the threat of a general strike if they were not paid within a week.
Until this month the members of the Peking Police force have been paid on time but because of the fact that they have not yet received October salaries a joint petition has been addressed to the cabinet for the setting aside of a monthly reserve fund of $200,000 to insure prompt payment of all members of the Peking police.
It is suggested that the money for the establishment of this fund be drawn from the receipts of the Hatamen Octroi, the stamp tax, and the tax on richshas. The decision to present this petition was reached, it is reported, at a meeting on October 28 to which all the police officers of the city were invited.
